REFERENCES (EUROPEAN PHILOSOPHY & THE AFTERMATH OF VIOLENCE)

Murphy, Ann. 2011. “‘Violence is not an Evil’: Ambiguity and Violence in Simone de Beauvoir’s Early Philosophical Writings.” philoSOPHIA. 1(1): 29-44.

At once a personal narrative of recovery and a philosophical exploration of trauma, this book examines the undoing and remaking of a self in the aftermath of violence. It explores, from an interdisciplinary perspective, memory and truth, identity and self, autonomy and community. It offers imaginative access to the experience of a rape survivor as well as a reflective critique of a society in which women routinely fear and suffer sexual violence. Susan J. Brison is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Dartmouth College, where she also teaches in the Women's Studies Program. She is the coeditor of Contemporary Perspectives on Constitutional Interpretation and the author of the forthcoming Speech, Harm, and Conflicts of Rights (Princeton).
